Invited Talk

Interaction and Co-operation in Constraint Processing

James Bowen

Cork Constraint Computation Centre
University College, Cork, Ireland
j.bowen@cs.ucc.ie

Abstract. The workshop programme at CP-2001 includes two workshops called, respectively, "CoSolv: Workshop on Cooperative Solvers in constraint programming" and "User-Interaction in Constraint Satisfaction". In fact, full-fledged user-interaction should support multiple users, and should support co-operation between these users. A constraint-based architecture based on these ideas will be sketched; an implementation of this architecture will be overviewed and an example application will be presented.